and refreshed as we watched the sleeping city below.

Always has Bombay fulfilled the promise she seemed to make that first dawn, written on the white pinions of the yachts pointing to the blue vault above.